[ADVERTISEMENT.]
THE QUEEN v. J. T. HUGHES.

EARLY in February, 1844, an advertisement appeared in the Sydney Herald, offering for sale, by the Trustees under the Insolvent Estate of Mr. J. T. Hughes, certain Cattle then depasturing on the Estate of Albion Park, Illawarra; when that advertisement appeared, Mrs. Hughes wrote a letter to Messrs. Dawes, Smart, and Walker, Trustees of the Insolvent Estate of her husband, stating, that amongst the Cattle of her husband depasturing at Albion Park, were cattle belonging to the Trustees of herself and her children, and that she had instructed her Solicitor, Mr. Bradley, to take legal steps to prevent any interference with the Cattle, excepting such as belonged to her husband, and Mrs. Hughes further intimated, that her Trustees were willing to purchase at the fair market price of the day, whatever Cattle, the property of the Trustees of Mr. Hughes's Insolvent Estate, were then depasturing at Albion Park.

To this proposal a negociation ensued between the parties for the sale and purchase of the cattle, which terminated on the 2nd March, 1844, by a bargain being concluded. Pending the treaty for the cattle, and previous to the bargain being completed, Mrs. Hughes wrote a letter to Duncan Beatson, then her superintendent at Illawarra, dated 26th February, 1844, intimating that she had made an offer for the cattle belonging to the insolvent estate of her husband, then depasturing at Albion Park; that if the trustees acceded to her proposal, to render every assistance in mustering, but if they did not, not to render any assistance.

Albion Park was the property of the late Mr. Samuel Terry, and now held in trust for certain purposes set forth in his will; and after the insolvency of Mr. J. T. Hughes, which took place 7th September, 1843, it is presumed, it was the duty of the trustees, under the insolvency, to have removed the cattle depasturing there.

The deed of assignment carrying out the bargain for the cattle is dated 25th March, 1844, and is as follows:—

This indenture made 25 March, 1844, between Messrs. Walker, Smart, and Dawes, of the first part; Rosetta Terry, of the second part; and Messrs. Henry Hughes and John Eales, Trustees of Mrs. Esther Hughes, of the third part.

WHEREAS John Terry Hughes surrendered his estate, according to the provisions of the Insolvent Act, 7 September, 1843.

AND WHEREAS Messrs. Walker, Smart, and Dawes, were elected Trustees.

"AND WHEREAS, in execution of their "office as such Trustees, the said John Wal- "ker, Thomas Ware Smart, and William "Dawes, had caused certain horned cattle de- "pasturing at Albion Park, in the district of "Illawarra, in New South Wales aforesaid, "a portion of which belonged to the said "John Terry Hughes before the sequestration "aforesaid, to be advertised for sale by public "auction:—AND WHEREAS, Samuel Terry, "late of Sydney aforesaid, Esquire, now de- "ceased, did at various times give to the "children of the said John Terry Hughes and "Esther his wife, divers horned cattle which "have been depasturing with the herds of the "said John Terry Hughes, at Albion Park, "Illawarra, aforesaid, and the same with the "increase thereof, have intermingled, so that "difficulty has arisen in ascertaining the num- "bers really belonging to each of the said "parties.

"AND WHEREAS, upon such advertisement, "the claim of the said children has been "brought under the notice of the said John "Walker, Thomas Ware Smart, and William "Dawes, and a treaty was thereupon made, by "the said Rosetta Terry, widow of the said "Samuel Terry, for the purchase of the whole "of the said cattle, on behalf of the said chil- "dren, when the said John Walker, Thomas "Ware Smart, and William Dawes, agreed to "sell, and dispose of the whole right which "was of the said John Terry Hughes, in and "to the same, or such part thereof as might "in fact have belonged to him, (the exact "number of such part, from the reason afore- "said, not being ascertained) at, and for the "price or sum of Four Hundred Pounds; "AND WHEREAS the said Rosetta Terry, in con- "sideration of the natural love and affection "which she hath or beareth towards the chil- "dren of Esther Hughes, the wife of the said "John Terry Hughes, hath requested the "said John Walker, Thomas Ware Smart, and "William Dawes, to assign the said cattle, "chattels, and other effects, mentioned in the "said schedule, to the said Henry Hughes, "and John Eales, upon the trusts hereinafter "declared, of and concerning the same; NOW "THIS INDENTURE WITNESSETH, that in pur- "suance of the said agreement, and in "consideration of the premises aforesaid, "and also of the sum of four hundred pounds, "in hand paid, by the said Rosetta Terry, to "the said John Walker, Thomas Ware Smart, "and William Dawes, upon the execution of "these presents, the receipt whereof is hereby "acknowledged, and also in consideration of "the sum of ten shillings to the said John "Walker, Thomas Ware Smart, and William "Dawes, paid by the said Henry Hughes and "John Eales, the receipt whereof is also here- "by acknowledged, they the said John "Walker, Thomas Ware Smart, and William "Dawes, at the request and by the direction of "the said Rosetta Terry, HAVE, and each and "every of them HATH bargained and sold, and "by these presents Do and each of them DOTH "bargain and sell, unto the said Henry Hughes "and John Eales, their executors, administra- "tors, and assigns, ALL and singular the horned "cattle, chattels, and effects, particularly men- "tioned and described in the schedule here- "under written, and now depasturing and "being at ALBION PARK, in the district of "Illawarra aforesaid: AND ALL the right, "title, property, claim, and demand, whatso- "ever, both at law and equity, of them the "said John Walker, Thomas Ware Smart, "and William Dawes, of, in, or to, "the same and every of them re- "spectively, TO HAVE AND TO HOLD "the said Cattle, Chattels, and Effects, and all "and singular other the premises herinbefore "bargained and sold, or intended so to be, "with their and every of their rights, mem- "bers, and appurtenances, unto the said Henry "Hughes and John Eales, UPON THE TRUSTS, "&c., &c., &c."

The Deed, of which the foregoing is an extract, is signed by John Walker, T. W. Smart, W. Dawes, R. Terry, Henry Hughes, and J. Eales, and in all other respects duly executed.

Mrs. Hughes continued, for a considerable time afterwards, Duncan Beatson as her overseer at Illawarra, and as he could not or would not, muster her cattle, before he left her service, she refused to pay him his wages (£115), but deposited the amount in the Union Bank, pursuant to an agreement drawn up on behalf of Beatson, by Mr. James Norton his attorney.

Mr. Hughes in his Schedule delivered into the Insolvent Court 11th December, 1843,—returned his Cattle at Illawarra, exclusive of those belonging to His Children, as 500 head.

It is for deceiving or overreaching his creditors as to these cattle that Mr. Hughes has been tried and found guilty; and the only evidence on which the verdict rests is that of Duncan Beatson.
7052 ESTHER HUGHES.

DAVID JONES AND CO.'S,
Opposite the General Post Office.
Their reason for adopting this course, the proprietors respectfully submit, must be obvious to all, viz:—the frightful calamities of the times which, having paralysed every branch of British industry, and reduced the usual amount of business to a ruinous extreme, spreading alarm, distrust, and disappointment to her remotest colonies—our own with the rest. Messrs. D. Jones and Co. having by them a large and magnificent stock of goods, just enriched by Fifty (50) Cases, ex Chaseley, and being in daily expectation of the receipt of other large importations, find themselves compelled to choose one of two alternatives; either to risk the keeping a large portion of their stock over till next Autumn, or submit at once to a present sacrifice.
They have decided to adopt the latter course while the fabrics are new.—The whole of their magnificent stock will therefore be offered at the English Prime Cost.
Those who can appreciate Bargains in first-rate manufactures, have now a rare opportunity, particularly in the Silk, Shawl, Cloak, and Family Linen Departments, which are unsurpassed in extent, costliness, and variety, by any establishment out of London.

Vessels for London. — The Pandora and Midlothian will be full ships to-morrow, and are expected to sail on Thursday next. The St. Vincent will be a full ship on Wednesday, and sail on the 1st May. She will be followed by the Tropic (P. O. P.) on the 6th. The City of Poonah has discharged the whole of her cargo, and will commence loading for London in a few days. The Medway, it is expected, will not load here for London, as originally intended.

The Kelso, on her passage from Twofold Bay to Port Nicholson, lost only twenty-five head of cattle and six sheep, out of 300 of the former and 800 of the latter, shipped. The schooner Eagle, from Port Albert, with stock, arrived at Port Nicholson on the 4th instant, after a twenty-one days' passage, having lost twenty-one head of cattle out of forty-two, and ten sheep out of one hundred. The barque Indian, from London the 20th November, arrived at Port Nicholson on the 2nd instant. The ship John Wickliffe, from London, had arrived at the new settlement of Otago, with twenty-nine passengers in the cabin, twenty-five in the fore cabin, and sixty immigrants. The Phillip Laing was daily expected, with twenty cabin passengers and two hundred immigrants from the Clyde.

The ship Thomas Arbuthnot, hence for London the 29th August, was at Rio Janiero on the 10th November.

The brig Christina, hence for Port Phillip the 12th instant, put into Twofold Bay on Thursday last, and remained there windbound when the Shamrock left on Friday. She had met with exceedingly bad weather, and during a gale on the 16th instant, one of the seamen was washed overboard and drowned. The schooner Alice, hence for Port Phillip the 9th instant, was also windbound at Twofold Bay.

The Queen, arrived at Port Phillip from Glasgow, reported having spoken on the 18th March, in lat. 43 S. long. 26 E., the barque Hindoo, from London, bound for Adelaide and Port Phillip.

The barque Eleanor Lancaster was expected to sail from Newcastle for Auckland yesterday morning.

In the manifest of the Sydney, in Saturday's Herald, for A. Dreutler, read J. S. Willis, as the consignee of 50 half-hogsheads vinegar, 20 cases pickles, and 30 cases mustard.

"Sworn to no Master, of no Sect am I."

GRIEVANCES.

The motion of the honorable and learned member for Sydney, for the appointment of a Select Committee to prepare a petition of grievances to Her Majesty and both Houses of Parliament, which was to have been brought forward on Tuesday last, has been postponed until Tuesday next. What these grievances are, the honorable gentleman has not yet informed us; but we presume that the monster grievance under which his immediate constituents have been suffering for years past, and for which a large number of them have just now sought redress at the hands of the Legislature, will not be found in his grievance-list.

It is a mortifying consideration, that during the six years in which the Legislative Council has sat, nothing whatever should have been done, until the sixth and last year of its existence, towards bettering the condition, as regards the health and comfort of its inhabitants, of our metropolitan city. Still more mortifying, that this movement at the eleventh hour should have been made, not by one or other of the two city members, but by the representative of a provincial district. And most mortifying of all, that our volunteer champion, instead of receiving the prompt and cordial support of the members to whom the citizens had especially confided their interests, should in each of those members have encountered an antagonist. The most frivolous and hackneyed objections were thrown by them in his way, especially by the gentleman to whom courtesy asigns the prefix of "learned." He, so sensitive to grievances which are abstract and speculative, is quite tolerant of those which daily come home to the eyes, the ears, the nostrils, and the lungs of his own forty or fifty thousand constituents. The barren generalities which only affect our notions of political justice, or bode the possibility of future damage to our political weal, rouse all the pugnacity of his nature, and let loose the torrents of his foaming eloquence; while the specific nuisances which load the atmosphere of our capital with stench, and threaten to fill our streets with pestilence, are trifles beneath his notice, or to be noticed only in the spirit of quibbling apology for their continuance.

On looking about us in quest of those more general grievances for the redress of which Mr. Wentworth proposes to petition the Queen and both Houses of Parliament, the only actually subsisting grievances that we can discover are those connected with the appropriation of our ordinary revenue, and with the management of our public lands. The revenue grievance, it is scarcely necessary to say, lies in the schedules of our Constitution Act, which place full forty per cent. of the produce of our own taxes beyond the reach of the local legislature. The vitality of this grievance, however, is contingent upon the character of the legislature. Such was the temper of the Council in its first session, that but for the tight knot of the schedules, the majority of its members would, we verily believe, have made such sweeping innovations as would have implicated the good faith of the Crown, and crippled the efficiency of the public service. And such would be the composition of a House of Assembly elected, under the provisions of Earl Grey's proposed constitution, that to place the whole revenue at its disposal would be an act of madness.

The territorial grievance is twofold—the high upset price of land, and the monopoly of its proceeds by the Executive. The latter, like the civil list, is a grievance only on the supposition of our having a set of discreet men in the Council or Assembly; the other is a positive substantial evil, working serious mischief to the colony, and demanding the untiring exertions of all classes of the community for its removal. We hope the Council will not break up without another effort to convince the home Government of the urgent necessity of repealing so much of Lord Stanley's Land Act as forbids the sale of land at less than twenty shillings per acre. Probably Mr. Wentworth, now that he and his brother squatters have got their "fixity of tenure," does not consider this any grievance at all. Other honorable members, however, are as much alive to its enormities as ever; and they will be wanting in their duty to the country if, before they die a senatorial death, they do not make one more move against this grievance of grievances.

Another grievance, which may or may not involve serious consequences, is the actual and threatened reduction of our military defences. Lord Grey is not satisfied with the large abstraction of troops which he has already caused, but warns us to be prepared "for the further reduction which will probably be effected at a very early period." He assigns two reasons for this: the breaking up of our convict establishment, and our being "peculiarly exempt from the danger of being attacked by a foreign enemy." It is rather premature to talk of our deliverance from convicts, when his lordship is on the eve of an experiment intended to rid England of a large proportion of her criminals, and of which it is impossible to foresee with certainty what will be the effects upon our social interests. Till this experiment shall have had a fair trial, at any rate, he cannot consistently talk about reducing our military. His lordship's second reason is marvellously untrue. Surely, when he wrote about our peculiar exemption from the attacks of a foreign enemy, the recent history of Tahiti must have entirely escaped his memory. In the event of a war between England and France—a contingency, alas! very far from improbable — there can be no doubt that the noble lord's theory of our "peculiar exemption" would soon receive a melancholy confutation.

A minor grievance—minor, because touching only one class of the community—is the Quit-Rent system. Considering the laudable anxiety manifested by the present Governor for a final adjustment of this annoying impost, and the illiberal spirit in which his regulations for that purpose have been treated by the Secretary of State, we think the Council owe it to His Excellency, as well as to the landowners, to express their sentiments on the question.

The last thing that at present occurs to our recollection as having in it anything of the nature of a grievance, is Earl Grey's following up Lord Stanley's interference with the appointment of our Corresponding Committee and Parliamentary Agent. We are glad to see that on this subject the honorable member for Cumberland has given notice of his intention to move, to-morrow, a resolution declaratory of the Council's determination not to submit to this insulting dictation. Even did such a declaration threaten consequences injurious to the colony, it would still be right and necessary; but it so happens that no such consequences are to be apprehended. The honorable gentleman who occupies the post of Parliamentary Agent has, on two or three occasions, done the colony good service; and is at all events entitled to the salary under the promise of which he accepted the appointment. But we are inclined to think his continuance in office may now be safely dispensed with.

Such is our little budget of grievances so far as we have been able to find them. And if these are all, where, it may be asked, is the necessity for a Grievance Committee? Surely it were more fitting to let each question be discussed by itself, and dealt with on its own merits.

ARE THE INTERIOR WATERS OF AUSTRALIA NAVIGABLE?

No. 4.—Basin of the Murray.

There remains only the examination of the rivers traversing the basin of the Murray, in order to give a complete answer to the question at the head of this article.

But before we proceed further, we wish to correct an inadvertent error in the last article. We stated by mistake, that on his return Mr. Kennedy was three days and nights without water. It should have been written two days and nights.

We wish also to mention, in reference to a note signed R. Clint, in the Herald of the 11th instant, that if there has been any error in the use of Mr. Raye's name, that error is not ours. The account of Mr. Raye's journey was taken from our southern contemporary, and to this account, alleged to be copied from the Sydney Morning Herald, the initials R. C. were not appended, as Mr. Clint says his were to the account he sent to the Maitland Mercury. We do not see what "injury" Mr. Raye can sustain from our allusion to this account, even if we confounded the writer of the account with the traveller: for in all but one particular, namely, the junction of "all the waters" from Cape York to Port Phillip with the Darling and Murray, Mr. Raye's or Mr. Clint's statement (whose soever it is) is confirmed by the authorities quoted by us from the writings of Mitchell, Sturt, &c.

To these we again refer for evidence upon the remaining part of our subject.

The basin of the Murray comprehends that river, together with the Murrumbidgee, the Lachlan, Ovens, Goulburn, Bayungun, &c.

(1). First, then, of the Lachlan. In the year 1836, on 24th March, Sir T. Mitchell "beheld in the Lachlan all the features of the Darling, but on a somewhat smaller scale. * * * But its waters were all gone, except in a few small ponds, in the very deepest parts of its bed. Such was now the state of that river, down which my predecessor's boats had floated. I had, during the last winter, drawn my whaleboats 1600 miles over land without finding a river where I could use them; whereas Mr. Oxley had twice retired by nearly the same routes, and in the same season of the year, from supposed inland seas." (ii. p. 13.)

Regent's Lake also was nearly dry in April. (p. 34.) On 24th April, his "horses began to be quite knocked up, chiefly from want of water. At the end of four miles, we found the junction of all the channels had taken place, and the bed of the river as broad and deep as usual, but it was everywhere dry." (p. 52.) On 3rd May, he "still in vain traced the channel for water, even in its sharpest turnings, until long after it was dark. We encamped at length," he says, "near a small muddy hole discovered with the assistance of our female guide, after having travelled nineteen miles." (p. 62).

Waljeer's Lake was found perfectly dry, (p. 64), and seven miles beyond it he pursued the channel of the Lachlan "about two miles without finding a drop, and encamped finally without having any for the animals, after travelling upwards of sixteen miles." (p. 66.)

On 10th May, as they neared the Murrumbidgee, "water was found abundantly," (p. 70) and there is little doubt the change was due to the proximity of that river, which at the point reached by Sir Thomas was "a magnificent stream, flowing within eight feet of its banks" exceeding his expectations —"resembling a thing of life in its deep rippling waters." (p. 75.)

The junction of the two rivers showed a well defined channel fifty miles below the spot where Oxley thought it terminated in a marsh (p. 78), but all above was dry.

With such facts before us, it is certain that the Lachlan cannot be depended upon as a navigable river; for though occasionally in flood, it contains no permanent supply of water. Of the Murrumbidgee, in the end of 1829, Captain Sturt gives the following particulars:—

"When I arrived on the banks of the Macquarie it had almost ceased to flow, and its current was so gentle to be scarcely perceptible. Instead, however, of a river in such a state of exhaustion, I now looked down upon a stream, whose current it would have been difficult to breast, and whose waters, foaming amongst rocks or circling in eddies, gave early promise of a reckless course. It must have been somewhat below its ordinary level, and averaged a breadth of about 80 feet." (ii. 22.)

This was not far from the junction of the Tumut.

Lower down, the Murrumbidgee "expanded into a fretful rapid, but it was sufficiently shallow to admit of taking the drays over, without the trouble of unloading them." (p. 27.)

Still lower, though "increased in size, it preserved all the characters of a mountain stream, having alternate rapids and deep pools, being in many places encumbered with fallen timber, and generally running over a shingly bed." &c. (p. 28.) Below Pontebadgery it expands. Captain Sturt says, "it is deeply to be regretted that this noble river should exist at such a distance from the capital as to be unavailable." (p. 35.) Further on it had been swoollen considerably by rains, and "it rolled along at the rate of three miles an hour, preserving a medium width of 150 feet.' (p. 40.) "It was certainly a noble stream." (p. 45.) "During the night it fell considerably, but it poured along a vast body of water, possessing a strong current.....It kept a very uniform breadth of from 150 to to 170 feet, and a depth of from 4 to 20. Its channel, though occasionally much encumbered with fallen timber, was large enough to contain twice the volume of water then in it,"&c. "The current was so strong as to carry 'swimmers' out of their straight course." (p. 47). Its channel was deeper than near the mountain, but its breadth was about the same. (p. 61).

On 6th January, 1830, Captain Sturt embarked in his boats, about fifteen miles above the junction with the Lachlan. He proceeded from 28 to 30 miles by the river's windings; and a little beyond this, one of the boats struck on a log (snag Yankice), and went down in 12 feet water, (p. 76.) Larger boats could have navigated the stream, which was deep and strong. (p. 79). The channel, however, contracted lower down, and became filled with immense trees, swept down by floods. (p. 80). The whale-boat struck on a second log and was again 'snagged.' (p. 81). She not long after struck upon a line of sunken rocks of iron stone. (p. 82). In longitude 143°, a running stream, the first for 340 miles, joined the river, which shortly after had a breadth of 200 feet, with an average depth of from 12 to 20 feet, yet several rapids occurred, down which the boats were hurried with great velocity." (p. 83.)

The channel after this contracted and became blocked up with large trees, which with an increasing current "rendered the navigation perplexing and dangerous." (p. 84.) The trees were so numerous that the passage could hardly be effected. (id.) The voyagers were carried at a fearful rate amongst these trees by a tortuous current, till they were hurried into a broad and noble river—this was the Murray. (p. 86.) The breadth of the Murrumbidgee here was fifty feet only. (p. 87.)

In 1836, Sir Thomas Mitchell was on the Murrumbidgee, as before-mentioned. He describes it as "an important river," with "a full stream," (ii., 82), and above its junction with the Murray, at Weyeba it was 50 yards wide, with banks 11 feet high, whilst the Murray below the junction was a magnificent stream 165 yards broad, and with banks 25 feet high. (p. 90.)

These statements, representing the state of the Murrumbidgee in 1829-30 and 1836, are sufficient to satisfy our question.

The Lachlan is clearly not navigable; the Murrumbidgee nearly up to the mountains is, but there are considerable dangers from snags and occasional rapids and shoals. But, perhaps, vessels purposely constructed of small draft, and carefully manned, might be employed, except in seasons of extreme drought. And if so, this river alone offers full 400 miles of tortuous navigation, extending through at least 300 miles of direct distance. So far, therefore it has been shown, and in part by direct experiment, that the Murrumbidgee is not useless as are the Darling and Lachlan, but it is to be presumed, that as its supply depends upon its source in the Australian Alps, its current will be affected by the state of the seasons – a cold damp winter succeeded by a warm summer producing the greatest supply of waters. This is an invariable phenomenon with all snow-fed rivers, and is well known to persons who have navigated the Rhine and Rhone, which are always necessarily fullest in summer, for the reason above given.

We reserve the Murray for a separate consideration.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

NOTICES OF MOTION AND ORDERS OF THE DAY.

Tuesday, April 25.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

1. Mr. Lowe to move for leave to bring in a Bill to enable the Commercial Banking Company of Sydney to sue and be sued in the name of the Manager of the said Company, and for other purposes therein mentioned.
2. Mr. Wentworth to move, That a Select Committee be appointed to prepare a Petition of Grievances to Her Majesty and both Houses of Parliament.
3. Mr. Robinson to move for leave to bring in a Bill for regulating Buildings and Party Walls, and for preventing mischiefs by fire, in the town of Melbourne.
4. Mr. Foster to move for leave to bring in a Bill to remove doubts respecting the validity of Marriages solemnized by Presbyterian Free Church Ministers.
5. Mr. Cowper to move the following Resolutions:—

(1.) That this Council cannot, consistently with a due regard for its own independence, submit to the conditions attempted to be imposed by the Right Honorable the Secretary of State, in the Despatch to His Excellency Sir Charles Fitz Roy, No. 201, and dated 31st July, 1847, in reference to the Bill for appointing the Honorable Francis Scott Agent for the Colony, under the authority of the Legislative Council—one of which conditions would be in contravention of the Standing Orders regulating the appointment of Select Committees. But, as the faith of the Council stands pledged to obtain the allowance of £500 per annum, promised to Mr. Scott in the resolutions passed on the 18th September, 1844, His Excellency the Governor be respectfully requested to recommend to Her Majesty's Government, that the sum of £1500 be paid to him, in fulfilment of the engagement of the Council with that gentleman during the three years he has acted, at their request, as the Agent for this Colony.

(2.) That an Address be presented to His Excellency the Governor, transmitting a copy of the above resolution.

6. Mr. Lowe to move for leave to bring in a Bill to simplify the Law in certain respects.

3. Port Phillip Gunpowder Bill; to be considered in Committee.
4. Sydney Roads Bill; to be considered in Committee.
5. Savings' Banks Bill; second reading.

CONTINGENT ORDER OF THE DAY.

1. Consideration of Governor's Message, No. 2, respecting Lady Dowling's Pension, with the Supplementary Estimate for the present year.

DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE.

INSOLVENT COURT.

Saturday.

Before W. A. Purefoy, Esq., Chief Commissioner of Insolvent Estates.

In the estate of Leslie Duguid, a special meeting for examination was held; and which, after the insolvent and one witness had been examined, was adjourned to the 16th proximo.

In the estate of William M'Laren, a special meeting was held, to decide upon an offer of composition made by the insolvent, to pay six shillings in the pound: by four shillings in the pound cash within six weeks; one shilling in the pound at six months; and one shilling in the pound at nine months. The offer was accepted by three-fourths of the creditors present. The following claims were proved at the meeting:—William Taylor, £4 6s. 3d.; James Goodsir, £67 9s. 6d; William Hindson, £39.

In the estate of John Buckland, a second meeting was held. No claims were proved.

The Sheriff.—At the London Tavern, at 12 o'clock, certain Chose in Action.

Testimonial of the Magistracy to Mr. C. Windeyer.—A meeting of the Magistracy was held at the Police Office, on Saturday, for the purpose of making final arrangements respecting the testimonial to be presented by this body to the late First Police Magistrate. The meeting was attended by Messrs. Botts, Barker, Sillitoe, Alderman Little and Captain Innes, when it was resolved that the amount of the testimonial, on being realized (several gentlemen not having as yet paid the sums set by them opposite their respective names), should be handed over, together with a list of the subscribers, to the treasurer of the Public Testimonial to Mr. Windeyer. It was also arranged that Messrs. Donaldson, Botts, and Barker, should wait upon Mr. Windeyer at his residence, on Wednesday next, for the purpose of presenting him with the address from the Magistracy.

Roman Catholic Church.—It is stated that the Rev. Charles Henry Davis, who, for more than eight years has held the office of Prefect at St. Gregory's College, Downside, near Bath, has been appointed Roman Catholic Bishop for Maitland, and Coadjutor to Archbishop Polding. Dr. Polding was for several years a professor in this institution before his elevation to the episcopate, and several of his clergy were students there.

Immigration. — Extract of a letter from London, dated 31st December, 1847:—"I sincerely hope that you Australians will be satisfied with the manner we are working the Emigration question. Francis Scott is a host in himself, and I anticipate ere long, chiefly through his exertions, to forward you a list of committee for promoting Australian Emigration, which, for respectability and influence, will be almost without parallel—some six Dukes, thirty Peers, and lots of M.P's."

Labour.—The whole of the single men and women by the Subraon have obtained employment. Small drafts have been sent to Maitland and Moreton Bay. There are still, however eight married men in the ship (seven farm labourers and one carpenter), who are anxious to obtain employment, and will, we are assured, be satisfied with moderate wages.

The Murder at Muswellbrook. — The body of the murdered man has been identified as that of a person named Richard Connolly, who had been in the service of Dr. Jenkins, from whom he had absconded, taking with him the gold watch he had about him, and was supposed to have been induced to do so by a shipmate who is believed to be the perpetrator of the murder, and from the description given of him he was twice seen, but unfortunately before intelligence of the murder arrived in Maitland, and whither he was subsequently traced by Lieutenant O'Connell, and a party of the Mounted Police, who are still in full pursuit after him.

Fatal Accident.—On Friday last, a boat in which were six youths, was crossing from Double Bay to the North side of the Harbour, and while close to the shore was capsized by a sudden puff of wind. All on board were precipitated into the water, but being able to swim, except one named O'Regan, a lad about sixteen, were picked up by the timely aid of Mr. Smith, of Castlereagh-street, and Mr. Vaughan, of Sydney, whose conduct merits every praise, and who witnessed the accident. O'Regan sunk instantly, and though every search is being made, the body has not yet been found.

Furiously Riding.—A person of the name of Robert Thompson, was on Saturday sentenced by the Police Bench to pay a fine of £4 and 2s. 6d. costs, or in default to be imprisoned for two months, for furious riding on the Race Course, on the previous afternoon. It appeared that the defendant's conduct had been very outrageous, attempting to leap the fences and endangering the safety of the limbs, if not the lives, of several persons.

Colonial Produce received Coastwise.—The following colonial produce has been received coastwise since last publication:—Grain, 711 bushels, from Morpeth.—Wheat, 100 bags, from Wollongong; 2 tons, from the Moruya; 500 bushels and 17 bags, from Morpeth; 1380 bushels, from Shoalhaven; 150 bushels, from Shell Harbour; 100 bushels, from Bateman's Bay; 61 bags, from Twofold Bay and Pampula; 1024 bushels, from the Hunter; 45 bags, from Wollongong; 130 bushels, from the Clyde; 500 bushels, from Newcastle: in all, 2 tons, 3784 bushels, and 223 bags.—Maize, 1100 bushels, from the Hunter; 700 bushels, from Newcastle; 104 bags, from Morpeth; 201 bushels, from Shoalhaven; 7 bags, from Wollongong; in all, 2001 bushels and 111 bags. — Barley, 50 bushels, from Shell Harbour. — Hay, 202 trusses, from Morpeth; 86 trusses, from Wollongong; 10 bales, from Newcastle.—Potatoes, 6 tons and 1 cwt., from Shoalhaven; 33 tons, from Broulee; 22 tons, from Bateman's Bay; 67 tons, from the Clyde; 18 tons, from the Moruya: in all, 146 tons and 1 cwt.—Calves, 20, from Morpeth.—Pigs, 178, from Morpeth; 70, from Wollongong; 45, from the Clyde: in all, 293.—Lambs, 12, from Morpeth.—Wool, 208 bales, from Morpeth; 240 bales, from Moreton Bay; 22 bales, from Twofold Bay and Pampula.—Tallow, 12 casks, from Morpeth; 110 casks, from Moreton Bay; 19 casks, from Twofold Bay and Pampula.—Hides, 23, from Morpeth; 4, from Bateman's Bay; 200, from Moreton Bay.—Sheepskins, 42 bundles, from Moreton Bay.—Pork, 2 casks, from Shoalhaven.—Butter, 130 kegs, from Wollongong; 15 kegs, from Shell Harbour; 9 kegs, from Shoalhaven.—Cheeses, 59, from Shoalhaven.—Ale, 80 casks, from Wollongong.—Timber, 15,000 feet cedar, from Shoalhaven; 80,700 feet, from Brisbane Water; 5000 feet cedar, from Camden Haven; 3000 feet beech boards, and 2000 feet gum: in all, 105,700 feet.—Shingles, 64,000, from Brisbane Water; 70,000, from the Hawkesbury.—Palings, 3000, from Brisbane Water.—Laths, 3000, from Brisbane Water.—Coals, 401 tons, from Newcastle.—Salt, 20 bags, from Twofold Bay and Pampula. — Shells, 520 bushels, from Pitt Water; 300 bushels, from Brisbane Water; 400 bushels, from Broken Bay.—Shipping Gazette.

The Police Office.—The Mayor and Captain Innes were on Saturday assisted on the Bench by Mr. Holden, who, with Mr. Hill, was on the roster for the day, but whose non-attendance was accounted for by his absence from Sydney. On looking through the attendance given during the week, it appears there has been only four defaulters, viz.—Captain Moriarty, Messrs. L. Myles, R. Ramsay, and Stirling. The magistrates summoned for to-day are Messrs. Alderman Wilshire and Mr. D. Allan.

Clothes Stealing.—In the course of Friday night and Saturday morning, five white shirts and other articles of wearing apparel were stolen from out of a washing tub in a yard at the rear of the house of a person named Coffield, in Elizabeth-street South. The shirts are marked N. Dunn.

An Incorrigible.—A few days since a paragraph appeared under this heading respecting a man named Martin Kelly, who, after being in the course of about three weeks four times before the Police Court for assaults, and finally for obtaining an advance of £3 wages from a gentleman to whom he had hired himself to proceed into the interior, but owing to whose absence from Sydney he escaped prosecution, was, on his then being discharged, suffered to escape punishment under the Vagrant Act, on his promising to leave Sydney within the hour. On Saturday the man was again brought before the Police Court, having been found in a loft at an early hour on that morning on the premises of Stone's public-house. On the apprehending constable giving the necessary evidence to secure Kelly's committal, he addressed the Court, calling the attention of the Bench to the circumstance that if, as the constable alleged, he had seen him with thieves, that person was guilty of neglect of duty in not having previously apprehended them, and then addressed the Court lengthily about his innocence and his being persecuted. Captain Innes stopped what he styled Kelly's "self-proclaimed innocency" by stating that he had known him for nine years, and a bigger rascal he had never met in the colony, and he therefore sentenced him under the Vagrant Act to four months to the House of Correction.

Mad Bullock.—On Saturday, about noon, a bullock, which had escaped from some of the slaughter-house yards, whether from those at Blackwattle Swamp or Sussex-street, no person, from the suddenness of the animal's appearance, seemed to be able to state, caused from its rushing at several persons in Parramatta-street, who very narrowly escaped, considerable alarm to prevail. The animal, after nearly succeeding in tossing the driver of a brick cart, rushed at and broke down the fence at the Government paddock, and went at full run over to Redfern, where a second scene of dismay and fear occurred, but from whence it was with some trouble got again into the paddock, where it was finally shot by some of the Police force. The animal was in good condition, but, of course, no owner appeared to claim it, and after a butcher had been rewarded with the skin and fat for his labour in slaughtering, the carcase was sent to the Benevolent Asylum.

More Horse Stealing.—On the case before the Police Court, of John William Jones, accused of having a stolen horse belonging to a person named Duigan, in his possession, the particulars of which charge were given in Friday's Herald, being on Saturday called on, a man named Murphy was placed at the bar with Jones, that person having given him into custody as having sold him the animal which Duigan claimed. Evidence having been given by a respectable shopkeeper that he drew out the receipt, which was produced, and saw the money paid for the purchase, Jones was discharged from custody and made a witness, when he gave very minute particulars as to the circumstances under which he bought the horse, and Murphy offering no defence, was committed for trial.

Sudden Death. — Captain Innes, in the absence of Mr. Brenan, who was unwell, commenced on Saturday afternoon an inquiry at Mr. Oatley's public-house, Goulburn and Pitt streets, touching the decease of Catherine Jacobs, then lying dead at the house of a female named Bailey, in Durand's alley, where she had expired on the previous evening. The evidence of Alice Bailey and her daughter went to show that the deceased, who had resided with them for some time past, although in an ailing state, was on Thursday morning, at breakfast time, in her ordinary general health, and that after making a hearty meal she went out, and returned home in the evening, when she complained of being very ill, and stated that a person named Warden, residing on the Brickfield-hill, had greatly ill-used her by knocking her down, and attacking her with a broomstick. The deceased then went to her bed, from which she never again rose, having died within twenty-four hours afterwards. On the deceased's body being examined by these witnesses, it appeared that she must have been for some time past afflicted with a disease of a peculiar nature, and near its seat a wound was found. Dr. Tierney, having made a post mortem examination, confirmed this testimony, both as to the disease of the wound, which was one of very recent occurrence, and bore that appearance which the blow of a stick given in the manner the witnesses had stated or described it to have been, would present, and added, that although the disease she was suffering from would have induced death, yet the blow she had apparently received would be the means of greatly accelerating it. Captain Innes then issued his warrant for the apprehension of Warden, and adjourned the enquiry till this morning, when it will be holden at the Police Office.

The Prize Fight.—On Saturday, Yeardon, who had been captured on the previous morning by Inspector Higgins, at Mudbank, on the Botany Road, while engaged in a prize fight for £5 a side with a man named Richard Green, was placed at the bar of the Police Court. Yeardon having it appeared been allowed bail, Captain Innes remarked that after his capture he had been requested to allow him this privilege, but which he had refused in consequence of the desecration of the day (Good Friday) which the prisoner had been guilty of, and although it had been urged to him as a reason to induce him to do so, that Yeardon had a wife and a large family, he considered that this circumstance was only an aggravation of the offence; he (Captain Innes) therefore regretted to find that he had got bail some way else. Inspector Higgins then deposed as to his apprehending the prisoners stripped and fighting in a ring, which was surrounded by about 400 persons; and it was evident, Higgins considering the character of the parties present, had displayed considerable courage in making good his capture. Yeardon, who showed by his appearance (his eyes being nearly closed, and his face greatly bruised) that he had received, during the short time the fight had been proceeding before the arrival of the police, severe punishment, offered no defence, and was directed by the Bench to enter into recognizances of good behaviour for twelve months, himself in £100 and two sureties of £50 each, or in default to be imprisoned in Sydney Gaol for six months.

Another Prize Fighter Caught.—Sinclair, who was to have fought with Sparkes, in the affair on last Wednesday, and whom the Police have been on the look-out for, was on Saturday night apprehended by Serjeant Sowness, on a warrant charging him with an intended breach of the peace.

Store Burglary.—Early yesterday morning it was discovered that in the course of the previous night an entrance had been effected by forcing a back window, into the stores of Messrs. Smith, Brothers, in Sussex-street. Some boxes were found to have been broken open, and there had been a rummaging of papers in the office. All at present missing is a couple of hats and some wearing apparel, but in the absence of the principals of the establishment it cannot be stated what is the extent of the robbery. Two iron chisels were found in the store, which the burglars left behind them on decamping.

SYDNEY MARKETS.—Saturday.

Wheat.—The supply during the past week has been large, but a great portion having been of very inferior quality, this article has had an upward tendency. Inferior has been got rid of at from 2s. 6d. to 3s. per bushel, middling to good from 3s. 3d. to 3s. 10d., and for a very superior sample 4s. per bushel has been given.

Flour.—The price at the mills is £11 per 2000 lbs. cash.

National Library of Australia http://nla.gov.au/nla.news-page1513595

BISCUIT.—No. 1 (cabin), 18s.; No. 2 (pilot) 15s.; No. 3 (ship), 13s. per cwt.

BRAN.—Wholesale, 10d., retail, 1s. per bushel, cash.

BREAD.—3d. is charged for the 2 lb. loaf.

GRAIN.—The supply of maize has been last week far more proportionate to the demand than the preceding one, and the lowest sales that have been effected were at 1s. 4d. for middling quality, whilst good has been sold, and is in demand, at 1s 6d. per bushel. Barley (Cape) has sold at 2s. 6d. to 3s. 3d. per bushel, according to quality; and English, for malting, at 3s. to 3s. 9d.

[illegible] for colonial has be-

POTATOES.—The mar[illegible] been a come so overstocked that there has [illegible] very great depreciation in price, sales having been made as low as 25s. per ton; Circular heads have sold at the wharves at £4 per ton.

HORNED CATTLE.—The market continues very steady; although the arrivals during the week have been numerous, still the carcass butchers having bought largely there has not been any excess of supply over the demand. The rate given for beasts, from six to seven cwt., has, with one or two exceptions, been from £2 to £2 5s. per head, and all the stock has been in excellent condition. Calves so greatly vary in the rate obtained for them, according to their age and condition, that a wide latitude must be given in price, as it varies from 5s. to 20s. There have been some sales by auction of milch cows at the Cattle Market during the week—at the first, by Mr. Stubbs, of fourteen head, from £1 10s. to £3 12s. 6d. each was obtained; and at the second, by Mr. Curby, of forty head, from £1 10s. to £2 each; but the purchases at both sales were made by dealers.

SHEEP.—All the sheep that have been brought to market have been sold at from, according to condition, 4s. to 6s. per head, but they were of very middling quality. There have been none that are usually considered by the buyers as good; and the first arrivals of 60 to 70 head will realise a good price.

HORSES.—There has been a larger number than usual of horses disposed of during the past week by auction, 48 having been sold by Mr. Armstrong at prices which were given in Friday's issue, and Mr. Stewart having sold 20 for which prices were obtained varying from £3 to £14, the average being about £9 per head. Mr. S. also sold a pair of bay carriage horses at £55. Good hacks are still in good demand, but the market has this week been glutted with unbroken stock.

PIGS.—There has been a larger supply of swine last week than during the preceeding one; but as the demand has proportionably increased, prices have not declined, and pork butchers have given for carcassing 2½d. to 3d. per lb., but this rate is not expected to continue for many weeks; sucking pigs are still 4s. to 4s. 6d. each.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Dues were paid at the market in the course of the week for a ton and a half of butter, a ton of bacon, and a ton of cheese. The supply of butter having been rather limited last week, prices have been for that of middling quality, 7d., and for good 8d. per lb.; a small lot of very superior sold at 1d. per lb. above the latter rate. The bacon, which was of very fair quality, was disposed of at an average of 4½d. to 5d. The cheese was of quality to advance the rate of the previous week, and sold very readily at 3½d. to 4d.

EGGS.—There has been a considerable rise in the price of eggs; the wholesale price given by the dealers having been 11d. to 1s.

POULTRY.—Ten loads paid the market dues. Although the epidemic which prevailed amongst poultry during the last three weeks, may be said to have nearly ceased, yet it has so thinned the stock of the rearers, that it is in only a few articles that prices have fallen, whilst in some they have advanced. The prices given last week were, for fowls, 1s. 9d. to 2s. 3d. per pair; turkeys, 8s. to 12s. each; geese, 6s 6d. to 8s. a couple; ducks, 2s. 6d. to 3s. per pair; pigeons, 1s. 8d. to 1s. 10d. per pair.

FRUIT.—There were thirty loads of fruit paid market dues during the past week. The only fruit calling for particular notice is the appearance of some early table oranges. Prices have been:—Peaches, (for preserving), 1s. per basket; quinces, 2s. 6d. per basket; citrons, 6d. per dozen; lemons, (Lisbon), 1s per dozen; oranges, (Seville), 10d. per dozen; oranges, table, 1s. per dozen; pomegranates, 1s. 3d. per dozen; chilies, 2s. 6d. per basket; apples—russets, 1s. per dozen, baking, ditto, 1s. per dozen; pears—early, none; baking, ditto, 1s. per dozen; figs, 4d. per dozen; loquats, 9d. per quart; bananas, 1s. 6d. per dozen; melons, 4d. to 8d. each.

VEGETABLES.—Market dues were paid for 50 loads, and prices it will be seen have rather advanced—the rates having been, for cabbages, 2d. to 6d. each; red ditto, 4d. to 8d. each; lettuces, 2d. each; celery, 2d. to 6d. per stick; radishes and leeks, each 1d. per bunch; vegetable marrows, 3d. to 6d. each; cucumbers, 2d. to 3d. each; onions, dried, 16s. to 18s. per cwt., or 2d. to 3d. per lb.; horseradish, 4d. to 6d. per stick; peas, 2s. 6d. per peck; French beans, 1s. 6d. per peck; rhubarb, 4d. per bundle; tomatoes, 3d. to 6d. per dozen; carrots and turnips, each 2d. per bunch; parsnips, 2d. to 3d. per bunch; pumpkins, 3d. to 6d. each.

FORAGE.—The dues paid at the Hay Market during the past week were, for hay 58, straw 24, green fodder 25, and green bedding 10 loads. The prices realised were—for hay, £6 to £7 15s. per ton—one very superior load sold at £8; for straw, 2s. 6d. to 3s. 6d. per cwt.; for green fodder, 6d. to 8d. per dozen bundles; for green bedding, 2s. 9d. to 3s. per load; Van Diemen's Land hay has sold at £6 10s. per ton; and Wollongong (bush) hay, at from £3 to £4 per ton.

LEATHER.—The prices of the week have been—Kangaroo skins, £2 to £2 6s. per dozen; hip, 11d. to 12d. per lb.; bazils, 6s. to 7s. per dozen; saddlers' ditto, 7s. to 9s. per dozen; sole, 6d. per lb.; calfskins, 3s. 6d. to 4s. per lb.; harness leather, 8d. per lb.

FUEL.—No alteration on previous prices.

BUILDING MATERIALS.—No alteration on prices last given.

SALE OF ALLOTMENTS AT O'CONNELL TOWN.—Purchasers are reminded that Mr. Samuel Lyons sells this day, on the ground fronting the Parramatta Road, allotments of O'Connell Town, and original allotments of the Camperdown Estate. The sale will commence at 12 o'clock, and a lunch will be provided.—Communicated.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

REMOVAL OF SLAUGHTER-HOUSES.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—In consequence of Mr. Wentworth being told, as he says from undoubted authority, that meat being killed at Blackwattle Swamp would not keep to be brought to Sydney, I beg leave through your columns to contrast this belief of his, and to inform him that meat killed in Sydney is daily brought to my house, and to many others beyond me who reside on the Balmain road, being more than double the distance it is now proposed to be conveyed; this, then, Gentlemen, can form no excuse for not removing an increasing nuisance known by those who are daily and hourly inhaling an impure atmosphere.

ENGLISH EXTRACTS

THE VERNON GALLERY.—The trustees of the National Gallery have made their selection from the gallery of Mr. Robert Vernon, and have accepted for the nation 160 pictures. The deed confering this magnificent gift upon the British people has been executed; and it now only remains for the nation to erect a structure fitted to receive the collection. Until this is done, we believe the pictures will not be removed from the house of the donor, in Pall-mall. Among the 160 pictures are four of the finest works of Turner; of examples of Etty there are six; of Eastlake, two; of Maclise, two; of Mulready, three; of Uwins, two; of Landseer, six; of Briggs, two; of Stanfield, four; of Collins, three; of Chalon, one; of Leslie, three; of Webster, two; of Callcott, seven; of Wilkie, three; of Jones, two; of Lance, three; of E. M. Ward, three; of Sydney Cooper, two; of F. Goodall, two; of Sir Joshua, one: of Gainsborough, two. It is unnecessary to state, that these are not only examples of the best masters of our school; they are, with scarcely an exception the best productions of the several artists—the works of their best time—selected with the nicest judgment and the keenest appreciation of excellence. The trustees were empowered by Mr. Vernon to take the whole collection, or to reject such as they pleased; they rejected but few, and these were chiefly small and subordinate works or sketches.—Art Union Journal.

KING GEORGE III.—He, Lord Eldon, often declared, upon his honour, that he thought his old master had more wisdom than all his Ministers conjointly; an opinion which I have heard him support, by declaring that he could not remember having taken to him any state paper of importance which he did not alter, nor one which he did not alter for the better. But it ought to be added, that this opinion of the superior wisdom of George III. was qualified by the addition, "Not that I mean to assert that he would have been more wise if his opportunities of gaining knowledge had not been greater than that of any of his servants. But what is the experience of the oldest of them in comparison of his? And though his manner of stating the result of that experience is calculated to mislead casual observers, yet those who will divest his matter of his manner must come to the conviction that it has been gathered by long and laborious application of powers of no ordinary strength." After the King's mind had become a wreck, and when its native strength could be traced only by the method of madness, Lord E. would sometimes describe it, after he had been at the Queen's council. The following is an instance of this: of which I retain a perfectly clear recollection. It was agreed, he related, that if any strong feature of the King's malady appeared during the presence of the Council, Sir H. Halford should, on receiving a signal from me, endeavour to recall him from his aberrations: and accordingly, when his Majesty appeared to be addressing himself to two of the persons whom he most favoured in his early life, long dead, Sir H. observed, 'Your Majesty has, I believe, forgotten that —— and —— both died many years ago.' 'True,' was the reply, 'died to you, and to the world in general: but not to me. You, Sir H., are forgetting that I have the power of holding intercourse with those whom you call dead. Yes, Sir H. H.,' continued he, assuming a lighter manner, 'it is in vain, as far as I am concerned, that you kill your patients. Yes, Dr. Bailey;—but Bailey—Bailey,' pursued he with assumed gravity, 'I don't know. He is an anatomist—he dissects his patients; and then it would not be a resuscitation only, but a re-creation; and that, I think, is beyond my power.' After his Majesty had, in 1807, changed the Ministry which was so unpalatable to him, I reappearing as Chancellor, in my former official attire, the King asked, in a whisper, 'My Lord, is not that the old wig?' and receiving the reply, 'It is, Sir, the old wig,'—the rejoinder was, 'I say, Lord C., why do you keep an old wig?'

CHARACTER OF MARLBOROUGH.—With one blot, for which the justice of history, or the partiallity of biography neither can nor should attempt to make any apology, Marlborough's private character seems to have been unexceptionable, and was evidently distinguished by several noble and amiable qualities. That he was bred a courtier, and owed his first elevation to the favour with which he was regarded by one of the King's mistresses was not his fault: it arose, perhaps, necessarily from his situation, and the graces and beauty with which he had been so prodigally endowed by nature. The young Officer of the Guards, who in the army of Louis XIV. passed by the name of the handsome Englishman, could hardly be expected to be free from the consequences of female partiality at the Court of Charles II. Shortly after the Revolution he was undoubtedly involved in many dark intrigues for the restoration of the exiled family; he seemed to be desirous to undo what he himself had done. It is the fatal effect of one deviation from rectitude that it renders subsequent ones almost unavoidable, or so confounds the moral sense as to make their turpitude to be unfelt. But in maturer years, his conduct in public, after Anne had placed him in high command, was uniformly consistent, straightforward, and honourable. He was a sincere patriot, and ardently attached both to his country and to the principles of freedom, at a time when both were well-nigh forgotten in the struggles of party, and the fierce contests for royal or popular favour. Though bred up in a licentious court, and early exposed to the most entrancing of its seductions, he was in mature life strictly correct, both in his conduct and conversation. He resisted every temptation to which his undiminished beauty exposed him after his marriage, and was never known either to utter, or permit to be uttered in his presence, a light or indecent expression. He discouraged to the utmost degree all intemperance and licentiousness in his soldiers, and constantly laboured to impress upon them a sense of moral duty and supreme superintendence. Divine service was regularly performed in all his camps both morning and evening; previous to a battle, prayers were read at the head of every Regiment, and the first act after a victory, was a solemn thanksgiving. "By those means," says a contemporary biographer, who served in his army, "his camp resembled a well governed city. Cursing and swearing were seldom heard among the officers; a drunkard was the object of scorn; and even the soldiers, many of them the refuse and dregs of the nation, became at the close of one or two campaigns, tractable, civil, sensible, and clean, and had an air and spirit above the vulgar." In political life, during his career after the Revolution, he was consistent and firm; faithful to his party, but more faithful to his country. He was a generous friend, an attached, perhaps a too fond husband. During the whole of his active career he retained a constant sense of the superintedence of the Supreme Being, and was ever the first to ascribe the successes which he had gained to Divine protection; a disposition which shone forth with peculiar grace amidst the din of arms and the flourish of trumpets for his own mighty achievements. Even the one occasion, on which, like David, he fell from his high principles, will be regarded by the equitable observer with charitable, if not forgiving eyes. He will recollect that perfection never yet belonged to a child of Adam; he will measure the dreadful nature of the struggle which awaits an upright and generous mind when loyalty and gratitude impel one way, and religion and patriotism another. Without attempting to justify an officer who employs the power bestowed by one government to elevate another on its ruins, he will reflect that in such a crisis, even the firmest heads and the best hearts may be led astray; he will recollect that, as already noticed, the heroic Ney, in another age did the same. If he is wise, he will ascribe the fault, for fault it was, not so much to the individual, as to the time in which he lived; and feel a deeper thankfulness that his own lot has been cast in a happier age, when the great moving passions of the human heart act in the same direction, and a public man need not fear that he is wanting in his duty to his sovereign, because he is performing that due to his country.—Alison's History.

WHY THE GOVERNMENT OF OUR COLONIES IS SO COSTLY.—It is one of the many evils attending over-government that party spirit is created and fostered by the mere hope of partaking in the profits of the great expenditure which accompanies it. Our own times are probably the first in which the governing body, in large states, has sought to acquire strength by multiplying dependents on the public purse; a matter of state-craft now well understood in some great European kingdoms. Under our old colonial system, no temptation whatever was held out to self-interest assuming the mask of patriotism—the commonest form of hypocrisy in these days. The expense of the civil establishment in Massachusetts Bay, before the commencement of the American war, was estimated by Adam Smith at about £18,000 a year; that of New Hampshire and Rhode Island, £3500 each; that of Connecticut, £4000; that of New York and Pensylvania, £4500 each; that of New Jersey, £1200; that of Virginia and South Carolina, £8000 each. "An ever memorable example," as he most truly adds, "at how small an expense 3,000,000 of people may not only be governed, but well governed. In 1836, the civil expenditure of Newfoundland, paid out of its revenue, was £36,000; of Prince Edward's Island, £13,000; New Brunswick, £52,000; Lower Canada, at least £100,000. If this enormous difference were compensated by superior government, I, for one, should be little disposed to cavil at the amount of the sums which the people of the colonies are called on to advance for the purchase of so inestimable a blessing. But I might safely ask those who entertain the highest notions of government and its duties, whether any of its functions, moral or material, are better fulfilled in our colonies of the present day than they were in the ancient American provinces.—Merivale's Lectures on Colonisation.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—A correspondent of the John o' Groat Journal, writing from Stromness, gives an account of a singular and fatal accident. It appears that some individuals of the town commenced burning of naphtha in their shops and places of business, and a jar of that dangerous commodity was lately brought from Leith. On the evening of the 11th ult., the parties concerned met for the purpose of having the said article divided; and, as it was in the dusk of the evening, they thoughtlessly availed themselves of a lighted candle, which, unfortunately, coming in contact with the liquid, the contents of the jar instantly exploded, causing death and destruction in every direction. The persons, three in number, in immediate contact with this horrid volcano, were in a moment enveloped in flames from head to foot, and were seen hurrying hither and thither distractedly, exhibiting the appearance of so many living torches. The neighbours were, of course, not backward in affording their aid; but, from the inflammable nature of the substance, the flames could not be extinguished till nearly every rag of clothing on the bodies of the sufferers was consumed, and their bodies burnt in a frightful manner. Mrs. Dunnet, wife of Mr. Dunnet, a merchant, after enduring the most excruciating sufferings, expired two days after. She was in the prime of life, and had, by her amiable and Christian deportment, gained the love and esteem of all who knew her. Mr. Dunnet, whilst endeavouring to extinguish the flames, had his hands and face severely burnt, and is not yet wholly recovered. Miss Inkster, aunt to Mrs. Dunnet, also suffered fatally. She was destined to be a long sufferer, as it was only on Sunday week that death came to her relief.

WOOLLOOMOOLOO.

FOR SALE BY PRIVATE CONTRACT—Several excellent allotments in the above superior vicinity, adjoining the residences of the Lord Bishop of Sydney, Sir Maurice O'Connell, the Hon. C. D. Riddell, John Raymond, Esq., Postmaster-General, John Gilchrist, Esq., &c.

The above allotments are delightfully situated on that part of Woolloomooloo Hill so deservedly celebrated for its beauty and salubrity. They are very capacious, possessing frontages to M'Leay, Victoria, and Dowling streets, with unusual depths, varying from 150 to 300 feet.

The valley of Woolloomooloo, with Farm Cove, Port Jackson, the Domain, and the city, are all within view, and the distance to the Post Office, George-street, may be easily walked within ten minutes.

For particulars apply to Mr. E. J. H. KNAPP, 205, Elizabeth-street, (where a plan of the allotments may be seen) who will render every information to parties desirous of purchasing.

Terms, liberal. 6981

FOR SALE BY PRIVATE CONTRACT

GUNDAYA CREEK STATION, BOYNE RIVER, with 1006 SHEEP, viz.: 27 rams, 431 ewes, 300 ewe wethers and hoggets, and 248 wethers of ages.

This splendid station, situated in the new country to the westward of the Boyne River, commanding an abundant supply of water, with feed for 10,000 sheep, will be disposed of on the most liberal terms—say one-third cash, and the remainder at one and two years, with security over the stock.

To any party removing stock from the more crowded districts, or to a beginner with a small capital, this presents a most desirable purchase.

For further particulars apply to JOHN WALKER, Bank of Australia buildings, Sydney. 6757

TRESS AND ASHE,
Auctioneers, &c.,
7044 Bathurst.

TO BE SOLD by Private Contract, a well-watered and most excellent Station on the Macintyre River, known as Boonangar, having ample pasturage for at least two thousand head of cattle in all seasons. It is situated in the vicinity of the stations of Messrs. Bosley, Pringle, Wightman, and Doyle, having a water frontage of twelve miles; its situation is that of a very open country, with large belts of myall, and is allowed to be a first-rate fattening country, coupled with the fact of its having a right of lease for fourteen years, and its proximity to the market being about two hundred miles than any other station available at the present day, is well worthy the attention of those desirous of securing a first-rate station. The purchaser can have from six to nine months' rations for three men, with cooking utensils and firearms, at cost price. For terms apply to Mr. M. MAGNEY, Glennie's Creek, Hunter River; or to the undersigned, Mooki River, Liverpool Plains.

At the intersection of

MARGARET-PLACE AND SUSSEX-STREET,

THE GREAT TERMINUS FOR STEAMBOATS.

To moneyed men and capitalists in town and country, informing them of another

IMPORTANT PUBLIC SALE

OF

SYDNEY PROPERTY,

IN THE VERY CENTRE OF THE CITY.

MR. STUBBS will sell by public auction, by order of the proprietor, Mr. John Kellick,

At the Mart, King-street,

On Wednesday, 26th April,

Sale at 12 o'clock precisely,

LOT 1.

All that most eligible corner of building land opposite Kellick's and the Hunter River Steam Navigation Company's Wharves, being the only site for the erection of now left in the city.

LOT 2.

All that neat and commodious

HOUSE AND GROUNDS,

(Now let to Mr. Soper at £90 per annum), containing drawing-room, dining-room, parlour, and bed-room on the ground floor, and two very comfortable bed-rooms above—kitchen, cellar, and servants' rooms, with extensive garden in the rear.

LOT 3.

A building allotment, suitable for a grocer's shop, in "Margaret-place."

LOT 4.

A very extensive building plot, having 17 feet 6 inches frontage by a depth of 96 feet, adjoining Mr. Day's boat-building yards.

Mr. STUBBS again reminds the moneyed men of the colony of the daily, nay hourly, rise in the value of property in this neighbourhood, created and creating by the immense traffic to and from the Hunter River Steam Navigation Company's Wharf, the Parramatta Steamboats, and the Flour Company's Wharf, now known as the great depôt for steamers and trading ships; as well as by the removal of the Barrack walls, which are opposed to the continuation of Hunter-street and Margaret-place, but which would otherwise intersect Kent-street, Clarence-street, York and George streets.

☞ Plan to be seen at the Mart.

☞ Title—Grant from the Crown to the vendor.

☞ Abstract of which will be ready for delivery on the day of sale.

Terms :—20 per cent. cash deposit, and the residue by promissory notes at three and five months from the day of sale. 6923

IN THE ASSIGNMENT OF WM. PENDRAY, THE YOUNGER.

MR. STUBBS is instructed to sell by public auction, on Wednesday, the 26th April,

At the Mart, King-street,

Sale at 12 o'clock,

All the right, title, and interest of the assignor, Wm. Pendray, the younger, and of the assignees of the said Wm. Pendray, the younger, of, in, and to the remaining assets of the estate of the said Wm. Pendray, the younger, as particularised in the schedule which will be produced at the sale.

And also,

All the right, title, and interest of the said assignor, and his assignees, of, in, and to 300,000

(three hundred thousand) acres of land, or thereabouts, purchased from the Chiefs of Chatham Island by Walter Brodie on the 4th day of March, 1840.

Note.—The present time is destined to mark an epoch in human history. The entire world is agitated by great and serious convulsions, in which all the "causi belli," or "monster agitation," is for LAND, for which countless thousands have been slain on the debateable tenure of a battle field. Witness "Mexico," "Mogadore," "Madagascar," "Tahiti," "the Punjaub," "China," "Borneo," "Circassia," "Kaffirland," and New Zealand," in which the whole subject of dispute lies within a nutshell of aboriginal rights and Crown assumption.

But Mr. Stubbs is happy to have it in his power to exhibit a title sanctioned by the common law of nations—an aboriginal title, with the "tattoo," or signature, of the trading parties. A title held to be inviolable by the Maories! A title! conceded by the Crown in the appointment of Commissioners to enquire into the equities of the purchases under which the Crown itself would become a party; therefore if any future squabble should endanger the peace of that island, the may quietly abide the certain issues in his favour without toil, anxiety, or danger; and when the strife is over quietly resume the land on which the vast expenditure of the nation has reflected a quintuple value.

These Sheep are from the celebrated flocks of Thomas Icely, Esq., and the Australian Agricultural Company, and are Warranted Sound and never to have been Diseased.

THE RUN

Is situate on the RIVER STEWART, in the neighbourhood of the stations of Messrs. Freill, Cardew, Haly, Lawsons, and Alexander, &c. It is well watered, and peculiarly adapted for Sheep, of which it is warranted to depasture 12,000.

ALL IMPROVEMENTS GIVEN IN,

Which consist of—

Good verandah hut at head station
Shepherds' huts
Wool-shed
Sheep-yards, &c.

To parties who are over-stocked, and may be wise enough to prefer the purchase of an established run with all its improvements, to the dangers, difficulties, and expenses of founding new stations in the far north, this is a Leasehold Property well worthy of attention.

☞ IT WILL BE POSITIVELY SOLD WITHOUT ANY RESERVE.

Terms at sale. 7104

5000 FIRST-CLASS SHEEP,

TOGETHER WITH

UNRIVALLED STATION FOR 12,000 TO 14,000 SHEEP,

IN THE

DISTRICT OF DARLING DOWNS.

☞ Thirty-five miles distant from the post town of Drayton and Cambooya, the Court of Petty Sessions, and only ninety-five miles distant from water carriage.

MR. MORT

BEGS to announce that he has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, George-street, on Friday, the 12th May,

At 12 o'clock,

Without the slightest reserve,

FIVE THOUSAND really well bred SHEEP, four-fifths of which are fine healthy ewes, principally young.

WARRANTED SOUND AND NEVER DISEASED.

The Station, as above stated, is only ninety-five miles distant from water-carriage, thus effecting, in the mere item of carriage, an immense saving; in addition to which, the auctioneer would wish it also to be known that, from the fertility of the pasturage and openness of country, the cost of labour is materially lessened,—it being a fact, that as many as 3500 sheep can run in one flock—and the ordinary flocks at all times amount to 1800,—and this without deteriorating the clip or diminishing the increase.

There is abundance of water for from 12,000 to 14,000 sheep, and if wells were dug, which could be done at little expense, the Station is capable of carrying double that number.

The Station is known as

THE ROSALIE PLAINS,

MYALL CREEK,

and consists of plains, and open box ridges, with apple-tree flats, being bounded on the north and west by Messrs. Campbell and Andrews; on the south by Messrs. Hughes and Isaacs; and on the east from the main range, dividing the eastern and western waters, from which the several creeks take their rise.

It is not inferior to any station on the Darling Downs as a Sheep or Cattle Run.

THE IMPROVEMENTS

On the Station consist of—

Cottage, with three rooms, verandah, &c.
A good garden, paled
A three-rail paddock for cultivation
A good stockyard, capped
Milk bail, gallows, &c.
One good shepherd's hut
And 130 hurdles

Two teams of bullocks, dray, harness

Four horses, &c.

And all the stores on the station to be taken at a valuation.

N.B.—To save intending purchasers unnecessary trouble, they are informed that the above property will not be sold otherwise than by public auction.

Terms very liberal. 7106
